Rooted and Rising by Thebe Ikalafeng

9780624095774 | Tafelberg | Business | TPB | R350

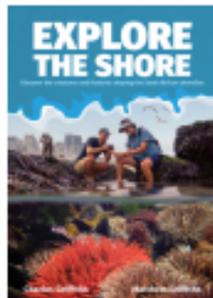

Rooted and Rising is a transformative manifesto and practical guide that empowers Africans and people of African descent to embrace their heritage unapologetically while thriving in a globalised world. Thebe Ikalafeng challenges the Western-dominated narrative of personal branding and leadership, offering instead an African-centered approach rooted in Ubuntu philosophy – the principle that 'I am because we are'

'As Africans, at home and abroad, we must regain our power as the arbiters of our culture and narratives. Rooted and Rising lays the groundwork.'

– Jessica Nabongo, first Black woman to travel to every country

'A powerful reminder that our greatest strength is our culture.'

– HRH Queen Nozizwe Mulela, CEO of Eswatini Bank

Explore the Shore by Charles & Matthew Griffiths

9781928363217 | Jonathan Ball Publishers | Natural History | TPB | R380

Did you know that limpets grow their own seaweed gardens? Or that seaanemones fight one another to defend territories? What's up with whelks surfing the waves in search of food? How does a starfish move? Does the paper nautilus really have a shell?

All this – and much more – about South African marine life is explained in Explore the Shore. Written in an engaging and conversational style, the book encourages curious and novice naturalists of all ages to head to the shore to explore for themselves.

Readers will learn not only about general life on the shore, but also about some weird and interesting aspects of creatures' behaviour. Pop-up features like personal anecdotes from the authors, interesting fact boxes and tongue-in-cheek comments from their adorable labradoodle Ben, who accompanies them on their beach visits, will make for personal, inviting content that readers will love.

Armed with the information in this book, a beach walk can be more exciting than any safari!
